

Question 3.4: Is the distribution of the number of entries statistically different between rainy & non rainy days?

Ans: YES

Describe your results and the methods used:

Ans: The p -value calculated using Mann-Whitney method is 0.019 which is a small number. This shows that the Null hypothesis could be rejected and the distribution of number of entries between rainy and non rainy days are statistically different.